At the present time Bangor, Lewiston and Auburn are the only three cities of Maine that own their own water supply.

The National Guard companies are filling the vacancies among the officers and closing up the ranks. The state encampment for 1900 will be a fine one.

The noon B. & A. train, No. 500, due in Bangor at 1:00 P. M., was delayed about five minutes above Bangor Mills by a freight train loaded with coal, which was on the track.

The schooner Estelle finished loading ice for Curacao, on Wednesday. She will take on a deckload of lumber at once and will probably be ready to sail the first of next week on her winter voyages.

Hon. L. T. Carleton has returned from a several days' visit in the northern woods, partly on business and partly for recreation. This was Mr. Carleton's first hunting trip since the big game season opened.

The stock feeding number of the Board Bulletin, Maine State Board of Agriculture, is out. These bulletins and other publications of the board, of interest to farmers will be sent free to all citizens of the State who apply for them.

The first social meeting of the Mutual Aid Society will be held at the residence of Mrs. C. W. Coffin, 173 Broadway, this afternoon from 3 till 5 P. M. Ladies are reminded that the annual fee is now due and that the society is in need of funds.

Work has commenced on the $30,000 residence to be built at Isleboro for Dr. Fred C. Shattuck of Boston. A crew of men is now engaged in putting in the foundation and the lumber is expected to arrive on the spot this week. The house must be completed by the middle of June, as it is to be occupied next summer.

The Bangor Athletic club football team of Ellsworth is looking forward to Thanksgiving as a red-letter day. In the afternoon at Wyman park, the team will play an eleven representing the University of Maine, while in the evening comes the annual concert and ball. This football game closes the season for the Dirigos, and they will do their best to win it.

One of the most prominent bee keepers in this part of the state says that the summer proved most disastrous to the bees. His opinion is that fully one-half of the bees were killed off. This was on account of the sudden rains during the summer. Nearly all the rains were cold and the bees being caught out of the hives, perished before they could get back.

The report comes that several of the cities in New England and other polo leagues are already weakening from lack of financial encouragement and one result is a revival of talk concerning a Maine league. In fact it is stated that a movement is already on foot for the formation of such a league. Bangor will undoubtedly be found in the polo ranks when the proper time comes.

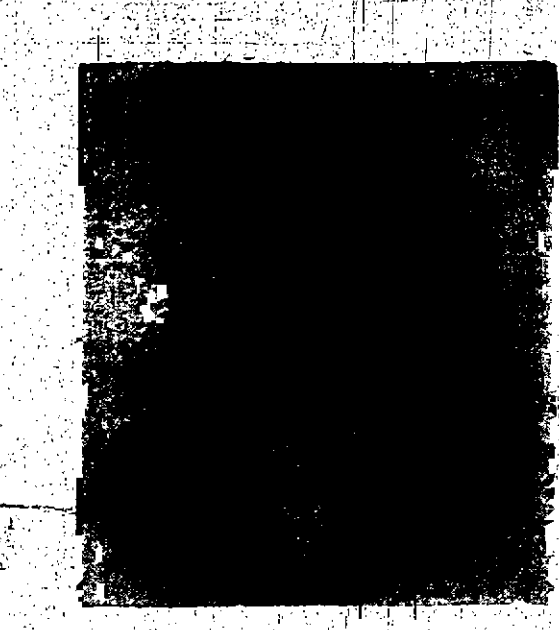

Mr. M. C. Foster, builder of the Eastern Maine Insane Hospital in Bangor, attended the funeral of the late Gen. Hyde in Bath. Mr. Foster and Gen. Hyde were long associated together in a business way, the note shipbuilder doing the large job, for a contractor for Mr. Foster. He continued to do that kind of work for Mr. Foster in whose contracts originated the Bath Iron Works.

Congressman and Mrs. Burleigh and Miss Burleigh have returned to Augusta from Boston, where they have been for several weeks. Bangor friends will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Burleigh, who was so seriously injured at Houlton last fall by being thrown from a carriage, while still being confined to the use of crutches, is gradually improving and it is confidently hoped that she will ultimately recover the use of her limbs without lameness.

Percy Smith, law student at Mayor Philbrook's office in Waterville, had taken his oral examinations for the bar before Judge Emery of the Supreme bench, he having taken his written work earlier. Mr. Smith will soon come to his home in Bangor to take a much needed vacation of several weeks. He has closely applied himself to the study of law. Mr. Smith is not decided as to his movements in the future, but thinks strongly of locating with Mayor Philbrook in Waterville.

A good story is told concerning one of the prominent men of Hatt and who had been out after game. The man started after birds and took his dogs with him. The dogs started some birds and were soon lost in the woods. The owner being unable to call the dogs sat down knowing that it would be useless to continue the hunt longer without their assistance. While sitting a large deer ran across his path and the animal was dropped at the first shot. It is possible now to go within a mile of the outskirts of the village and get a deer. Hardly a day passes when someone does not come into the town with a deer that he tries to sell.

Bangor football enthusiasts will be interested in the Bowdoin-Portland Athletic Club game Thanksgiving Day. Bowdoin is grooming herself for the contest and her supporters freely predict that she will lower the record of the Portland team when they meet. The Portland team is training diligently for the game and is confident of whitewashing the Black and White as she has all other antagonists since she first appeared on the gridiron. The Portland lineup for the Thanksgiving game will be identical with that in the All-College game except that "Combs" goes to Carter's place at right guard and Dorrison, formerly of P. A. C., and now of University of Maine, will play tackle. This will be the strongest Portland team of the season.

Hon. E. J. TIMBERLAKE, Bank Examiner.

Secretary A. C. Young of the State Board of Health, said: "The tendency of the entire state just now is toward health. There has been trouble in existence in the Good Will farm where there was a contagion of the scarlet fever, but this is improving. Otherwise the cases of contagious diseases over Maine are few."

The lives of many pedestrians were made miserable Wednesday night by the heavy footings, but by the cheerful "pousters" with the snow ball who would ask for a shot and invariably would hurt a volley of his missile whether or not he obtained a hit. Dodging pedestrians were at a premium.

Mr. Isaiah Sweetland of Boston, Col. Daniel Holt of Hartford, Mr. Edward W. Fullman of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. Lansing Mills of New York, all members of the general board of directors of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, have been on a tour of the east looking after matters pertaining to the fire insurance business.

This has been exceedingly fine weather of late for the hunters in the northern woods, so the record of the state fish and game department shows, and it will make a fitting last month of the hunting season, so that when December 15 comes the number of deer that have been shipped out of the state or through the state will show up by far larger than ever before. The number of moose, however, is not up to last year's record, the snow was a great assistance to the hunters.

At an examination in a certain school for girls on a essay on "Boys" was ordered written and this was one of the questions: "The boy is not an animal, yet he can be treated to a considerable distance. When a boy holds his mouth like a frog's, but girls hold their tongue till they are spoke to, and they answer respectfully, and tell just how it was. A boy thinks he is clever because he can waste where it is deep, but God made the dry land for every living thing, and rested on the seventh day. When the boy grows up he's called a husband and stays out eight or ten years, and the girl is a widow and keeps house."

Elmer Dennell of Turner street, Auburn, has just returned from a remarkably successful hunting trip near Bridgewater, 15 miles northeast of Bangor. He secured two deer, one moose, and a number of ducks. One of the deer and some ducks he brought home with him. But more than these he shot a sable, the second one that has been captured in the vicinity. He will have it made into a fur coat for neck wear. The task of getting his game out of the woods is a small one, even with a man to help him. The game was put on a light sled. It took two days, and one night they were obliged to camp in the woods.

A large amount of lumber has been used in Maine the past year for building purposes and carpenters say that prospects are bright for a continuation of liveliness in this direction. Lumbermen are looking about for timberland where they can obtain logs for manufacture during the winter or early spring. The sharp demand for lumber has made it possible to operate for logs at a profit, even at the high price which must be paid for stumpage. What is wanted is manufactured lumber to supply the spring trade before the drive reaches the mills. Several New England dealers who are short have been in the State to place orders for spring delivery, but have found many of the manufacturers overrun with orders.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

A Peculiar Damage Suit Before Judge Vose, Wednesday.

In the municipal court Wednesday a rather peculiar damage suit was heard by Judge Vose in which a man named Andrew J. Reeves sued to recover from the selectmen of the town of Bradford. Reeves is a resident of Bradford and was living in Bradford last winter. He is a very poor man and had received aid from this city. Being an old soldier, he could not be sent to any institution for the poor, at least except the Soldiers' Home. The Bangor authorities notified the Bradford selectmen of the case and they sent for Reeves. He refused to go with them, and to compel him a warrant was sworn out. Reeves disappeared, and could not be found. Thereupon the Bradford authorities forced an entrance into Reeves' house and took away such belongings as he possessed that they knew to be his. However, some of his things were left, such as a small supply of vegetables and some stove wood. The rest of the goods were transported to Bradford. Reeves claims that the town of Bradford had a right to take him to that place but that the warrant had nothing in it which allowed the selectmen to touch his property or to carry it away with them. Therefore, he sued for damages. Judge Vose after hearing the evidence in the case reserved his decision. William A. Towle appeared for the town of Bradford and Martin A. Cook for the plaintiff.
